Republic's Rulers Reassure People That U. S. Will Not Intervene as Long as Peace Prevails.

By J. P. McKnight.

HAVANA, Sept. 8.—The executive commission of five new ruling Cuba has under consideration a change in the present form of government involving the probable selection of a president, Sergio Carbo, a member of the junta, said tonight.

This latest turn in the widespread political picture came as the United States cruiser Indianapolis, with Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson aboard, dropped anchor in the harbor.

The Indianapolis, which came here from Annapolis, Md., joined the cruiser Richmond and two destroyers, the Bainbridge and the McFarland, but did not stay long, sailing for Panama at 6 o'clock. Secretary Swanson did not go ashore during the craft's two-hour stay.

"As matters now stand," Carbo declared, "we are inclined to form a coalition cabinet, with representatives of all the opposition sectors that have co-operated with us in our revolutionary work."

This indication of the junta's attitude followed shortly a flat refusal to accede to a proposal that Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, who was ousted by last Monday's non-commissioned officers' coup, be reinstated. At the same time a commission set up to conciliate the different political views met in secret to study "the nation's problems."

Carbo was asked whether the president would be one of the members of the present junta and he replied that was "the most probable solution." No mention was made of de Cespedes in the commissioner's statement.

Army headquarters reported that unarmored marines had landed in Santiago and Cienfuegos for inspection purposes only.

Recognition Asked.

Carbo declared that efforts had been made by the present government to obtain American recognition.

"We have established order and peace in the whole country and we think that in itself entitles us to recognition. The army problem has been solved and the officers are rapidly returning to their posts."

He referred to what he called the exorbitant military budget of the Machado regime and then said:

"The present budget for the army

SUNDAY BASEBALL AND AMUSEMENTS TO GO ON BALLOT

Board Decides To Let People Express Views in Primary; Public Ownership Referendum Added.

Reversing its previous action the sub-committee of the democratic executive committee Friday night voted unanimously to place Sunday movies and baseball on the referendum list of the ballot for the September 20 city primary. The sub-committee also decided to add a referendum on municipal ownership of public utilities.

Although the referenda cannot legalize Sunday amusements, because there is a state law on the subject, the result of the balloting will afford an indication of public sentiment on the question, it was said. At a recent meeting the sub-committee voted seven to five not to place the Sunday amusement referenda on the ballot.

Efforts to have the action on municipal ownership revoked will be made, according to Mrs. J. R. Wakefield, president of the Women's Better Government League, who sought mainly to have Dr. Sam Green, chairman, recall the sub-committee into session so a vote could be taken on reconsideration. Mrs. Wakefield said that the league, which opposes municipal ownership, contends that the public has not been given ample warning for registration purposes.

The sub-committee adopted a list of managers and clerks as nominated by sub-committees from the various wards. Dr. Green announced that, contrary to published reports, no matter how written in on the ballots for any office.

The sub-committee will hold a training school for managers and clerks at 8 o'clock next Friday night in council chamber.

Mouzon Issues Appeal To Vote Against Repeal

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, and the presiding elders of the Virginia conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today called upon ministers and members of the conference to voice their disapproval of the twenty-first amendment to the constitution.

Efforts to have the action on municipal ownership revoked will be made, according to Mrs. J. R. Wakefield, president of the Women's Better Government League, who sought mainly to have Dr. Sam Green, chairman, recall the sub-committee into session so a vote could be taken on reconsideration.

ROOSEVELT SEES U. S. WITHDRAWAL FROM RELIEF TASK

Duty Ultimately Must Be Restored to Individual, Says President at Human Needs Meet.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Asserting that he looked upon governmental relief work as of an emergency type, President Roosevelt today told a human needs conference that the duty in the end would be restored to "individual citizens, to individual responsibility, to private organizations."

"We are going to have unemployed throughout the United States and we know it," he said. "I hope, though, the time is going to come soon when everybody who normally wants a permanent job is going to get it. And so I like to think of government relief of all kinds as emergency relief."

The president appealed to the nation to loosen its purse strings to help care for the destitute this winter.

To delegates attending the third annual mobilization for human needs conference, Mr. Roosevelt criticized areas "coming hand in hand" to the government without doing their own relief share.

States Lagging.

"There have been states which have not done their share," the chief executive said, "states where the problem of relief has become mixed up with politics; legislatures that are thinking in political and not in human terms."

"I am glad to say that those individual cases are diminishing in number because the people of this country understand it and are telling the government bodies, local or state, they have got to 'play ball' and not shirk."

As the conference set about its task of furthering community charity chests, and reminding the people that governments alone cannot carry the burden, Frank B. Kellogg, a former republican secretary of state, said the main obstacle to its work was the belief the government would supply relief funds.

Two Relief Grants.

Meanwhile Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, today made an additional grant of $1,250,000 to Florida from federal funds, and an allotment of $303,968 to Oklahoma for unemployment relief.

Mr. Roosevelt said the administration program was opposed to "a permanent extension of purely governmental operations carried to the extent of relieving us of our individual responsibilities as citizens."

John Stewart Bryan, publisher of the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader, in formally starting the conference's sessions later at a hotel, asserted the necessity for community help was not minimized by the fact that the relief carried by state, federal and local governments.

Premier and Cabinet Quit Posts in Spain

MADRID, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Premier Manuel Azana's cabinet resigned today and President Niceto Alcala Zamora announced that he would immediately start conferences for the purpose of forming a new government.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—(AP)—A belief that four daring balloonists might have landed in some inaccessible, sparsely settled territory in the 1933 James Gordon Bennett races for speed was held tonight as airplanes, boats, and land crews searched without result.

Six days and nights have elapsed since the two pumpkin-shaped bags floated away with four others into territory beset by thunderstorms and heavy winds. They started from Curtiss-Wright airport here last Saturday.

The balloons could have remained aloft much past Monday. There remained a possibility they had landed in so remote a section that word of their safety would not reach civilization for days.

A theory that the balloons were blown over the Atlantic. Rescue by a ship would be improbable because the balloonists had no wireless sending equipment to summon aid.

One of the balloons was the Good-year IX, of Akron, Ohio, with Ward Van Orman, most famous of all American balloonists, as pilot, and Frank A. Trotter as aid. The other was the Polish entrant manned by Captain Franciszek Hynke and Lieutenant Zbigniew Burzynski, war heroes. Planes from Boston were ready to take off tomorrow to search the coast. Eight Canadian forestry planes took up the hunt over desolate sections of the interior. The search was on, also, in the Great Lakes region and over Pennsylvania.

The missing balloons carried oxygen equipment and the pilot planned to ascend to as high as 25,000 feet, where they would be unable to determine their position and where high winds might have carried them eastward beyond safety.

The crews of both balloons were veterans in lighter-than-air flight. They carried equipment to keep them afloat in case of a water landing. They had only small food and water supplies, but carried weapons and fishing tackle to obtain food in unsettled regions.

Another search by air and water was carried on over Lake Michigan near Chicago for an autogiro carrying three persons. Piloted by Carl Otto, "Spud" Manning, world champion parachute jumper, and Miss Margaret Gerard, 22, of River Forest, Ill., as passengers, the ship left South Bend, Ind., Wednesday morning for Chicago. It disappeared after starting out over the lake.

Record Formation Hop Ended by U. S. Planes

Longest Non-Stop Mass Flight in History Made by Six American Craft From Virginia to Canal Zone.

By JOHN F. CHESTER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Word was flashed to the navy department tonight of the safe landing at Coco Solo, Canal Zone, of six naval seaplanes after a 2,050-mile non-stop flight from Norfolk, Va.—completing the longest non-stop mass formation flight in history.

Battling successfully through a gale, five of the ships landed safely at the canal at 6:25 p. m. The sixth plane was nearly an hour behind.

The main body of the flotilla completed the flight in exactly 24 hours and 55 minutes. The takeoff from Norfolk was at 5:30 o'clock last night.

The sixth ship, P-12, under Lieutenant W. H. Buracker, of Winchester, Mass., fell behind the others during the afternoon. Engine trouble was reported to have slowed it down but did not force a landing until Coco Solo was reached.

Pass Over Cuba.

The air fleet passed over Cuba shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, cutting straight across the island now in revolution, from a point not far to the east of Havana.

Bold direction on the part of Lieutenant Commander J. M. Carpenter, third commander, aided in the success of the record-smashing effort.

The usual course after passing Grand Cayman, 100 miles beyond Cuba, would have swerved the ships westward toward the Honduran coast to follow the curving shore line south to the canal.

The flotilla, however, despite heavy storms ahead over the Caribbean, continued straight on for a jump of more than 800 miles over the open sea.

Hours of flying time followed, following the more dangerous route. Acting Secretary Henry L. Roosevelt, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, and Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, tonight sent messages of congratulations to Lieutenant Commander Carpenter, the 10 other officers and 25 enlisted men who made the flight.

Congratulations.

The acting secretary said: "Sincere congratulations on your splendid feat. The navy and nation are proud of you for having accomplished the longest non-stop formation seaplane flight in history."

Naval officials, in compiling figures to show the flight was the longest ever made, said that General Italo Balbo, air marshal of Italy, had made one jump with his air fleet of 1,864 miles during a flight to Brazil in 1931.

Balbo's longest mass flight during his recent trip to the United States was one of 1,677. It ended on the jump from Shosh Harbor, N. F., to the Azores on the return trip and involved 25 planes.

Other officers on the flight in addition to Carpenter and Buracker, were Lieutenant Commander Herman E. Halland, of Fargo, N. D., and Lieutenant H. R. Bowers, State College, Pa.; Robert W. Moore, Binghamton, N. Y.; H. W. Taylor, Newark; John L. Ewing, Boston; M. H. Kernode, Graham, N. C.; J. L. Kane, Brooklyn; Yates Stirling, New York; Leonard J. Dow, Toledo, who was on the ship with Buracker.

NEW COTTON PLAN NO FIGHT WITH NRA READY FOR DIXIE ADMITTED BY FORD

Wallace Will Announce Details of Crop Slash Scheme at Once.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—A cotton production control program for 1934 and 1935 has been approved by President Roosevelt and its outlines are expected to be announced tomorrow or early next week by Secretary Wallace.

Two main features of the plan include crop reduction for next year to around 25,000,000 acres and a virtual guarantee of parity price to the grower on a portion of his cotton.

This guarantee, as applied to each cotton producing county, would be almost half its production over the five-year average from 1928 through 1932, since the domestic consumption of the entire production in the five years approached one-half.

In turn, county committees would make the allotments to the individual farms on the basis of the production of the land during the period chosen. If a farm raised 100 bales yearly during the period and one man cultivated it, next year he would be assured the parity price on 50 bales, or slightly less.

The average domestic consumption of cotton over the five-year period ending July 1, 1933, was about 5,500,000.

The program the farm administration has decided to adopt means the virtual shelving of the plan which sought control of the cotton crop through a system which would limit the number of bales that might be grown next year. This idea was strongly advanced last week at meetings of the cotton growers' committee was not concerned with which candidate the workers preferred personally, he said.

At that point, eyewitnesses said, Morris hammered his fist on Sharp's shoulder in a series of taps, increasing in vigor, and said: "Well, I'll go back to the people of the ward and tell them the same old thing: 'Seab Sharp'."

JOHNSON THWARTS THREAT TO 'BOLT' BITUMINOUS CODE

Hasty Consultation With Critics of Administration's Ultimatum Averts New Crisis.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—A near crisis in the administration's effort to fasten an NRA code upon the bituminous coal industry was bridged tonight with indications that both Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator, and spokesmen for the mine owners had made concessions in a new step toward agreement.

Angry, Johnson faced four of the operators in a three-hour conference after receiving a biting letter of condemnation of the code which he handed down yesterday with the ultimatum that it would be promulgated early next week with few changes.

At the end, the quartet emerged, smiling, and the administrator said he hoped still for a charter next week with a general agreement from the industry. He added, however, that the public hearing he had set for Monday afternoon might be postponed 24 hours to give the mine owners more time to study the most comprehensive code yet written at the recovery administration.

Johnson said that as a result of the conference, negotiations on union contracts for Appalachian commercial unions, suspended today, would be resumed.

The letter from the operators, drafted after a general meeting early in the day, precipitated what Johnson described as "a very delicate situation." Although the operators had been given until tomorrow to file objections to the code, the letter, in effect said there were too many objections to attempt implementation.

The letter was handed to the administrator while he set at lunch at a hotel. Reading it quickly, he threw it upon the table, declined to receive it formally, and characterized it as "an insult to the president of the United States."

The letter was taken to his office by his secretary and the administrator summoned the four operators and John L. Lewis, president of the mine workers' union, and he was reported to be backing Johnson in his intent of imposing the code.

The labor provisions of the charter furnished one of the principal stumbling blocks, and there were strong indications that the industrial advisory board of the NRA, headed by Walter C. Teague, was taking a hand.

A lengthy joint meeting with the labor advisory board was held last night, and the board's opinion on what constitutes collective bargaining for labor was canvassed thoroughly. While no statement was forthcoming, it became known that no.

Auto Manufacturer Feels He Is Observing Code and Has No Quarrel.

DETROIT, Sept. 8.—(AP)—There will be no "fight to the finish" between the Ford Motor Company and the national recovery administration, it was learned from an authoritative source today, because the Ford company feels it is complying with the code and there is nothing to fight about.

"The code doesn't have to be signed in order to comply with its terms," was the statement. "Nobody has to sign anything as long as they observe the provisions of the NRA."

Perhaps Henry Ford will sign the code—perhaps he won't. Ford knows that. But whether or not he does, at the company's plant today it was said entire compliance with the code is possible without Ford's signature "the dotted line."

Opinion of Company.

This was not Ford's own statement, but, coming from a high source, it was representative as being the opinion of the Ford company since the inception of the national recovery act.

"If we signed the code we'd have to line down to it"—an oft-repeated statement of the motor manufacturer—was said to be the key to the entire situation. The company believed it is observing the code to the limit, and in fact, "going it one better" in its dealings with employees.

Ford, it was also stated, is "dealing with the matter," but the manner of his dealing was not explained. The company believes no further statement of the motor magnate's position is necessary, in view of their opinion.

Glascok Tax Receiver Is Slain by His Son

GIBSON, Ga., Sept. 8.—(AP)—T. J. Kitchens, Glascok county tax receiver, was killed at his home here tonight and a coroner's jury returned a verdict that he was killed by an automobile crank of his son, Gerald Kitchens.

Sheriff J. L. Kitchens, of Glascok county, placed Gerald in jail here on a charge of murder. Sheriff Kitchens said the elder Kitchens was killed following a domestic quarrel.

"I would have done anything to get him back," he cried.

The testimony came on cross-examination after Superior Judge Joseph Sproul ruled attorneys for Miss Windsor, state and screen actress, might sue the county for the cost of the suit grew out of a conspiracy between her and her divorced husband, an Oakland broker.

"Isn't it true that Mr. Read told you he was two-timing you and you told him you were two-timing him, and you got together and agreed to forgive each other?" asked Wilbur Pierce, defense attorney.

"I did not two-time him," Mrs. Read replied emphatically.

Mrs. Read testified her husband told her he was "running around with other women," explaining that as thought he might help get his sister, Miss Grace Read, "a job in the movies."

The brunei young matron admitted having gone to a San Francisco hotel with Read after their divorce and after she had filed the love theft suit. A man walked in on them and she was "awfully humiliated," she said.

Wolf Eats 35 Lambs, Then Devours Sheep Dog

THOUSANDS SIGN PLEDGES TO BUY FROM NRA FIRMS

2,600 Canvassers Take Field To Line Up 60,000 Atlanta Housewives Behind Movement.

WOLF Eaten 35 lambs, then devoured the shepherd dog set to watch the flock.

Word reached here today that a lone wolf invading the Bristow prairie country in the Willamette National forest had killed and eaten 35 lambs, then, apparently tiring of that diet, had slain and devoured the shepherd dog set to watch the flock.

The task of signing 60,000 Atlanta women in the consumers' division of the NRA was started Friday with 2,600 canvassers in the field and by nightfall thousands of pledge cards had been signed by housewives who promised to buy from Blue Eagle firms.

In the field herself and actively soliciting pledge signatures, Mrs. Max E. Land, chairman of the women's division promoting the canvass, reported that everywhere women were anxious to "line up in this new deal."

There were instances, she said, where workers found resistance from consumers, but as a whole the city responded to the president's program for employment and recovery. One instance of a school teacher who said "I'll have to find out whether or not my grocer is an NRA member before I sign," was reported.

Other resistance came from republicans who were resentful of the Roosevelt new deal, but in the main, Mrs. Land said, they were persuaded to sign before workers left their homes.

Campaign Mapped Carefully.

The army of women were working under a planned campaign with the city divided into divisions and areas under supervision of colonels and majors. It is planned to call on every woman in the city to enlist 80 per cent of the buying power in the consumers' group.

No daily reports will be made, campaign officials said, and only as divisions finish their work will signed pledge cards be turned in to headquarters. The women hope to complete their work by tonight.

While the workers were combing the

Sleeping Sickness Produced by Science

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Weeks of tedious laboratory experiments bore their first important results today with the apparent production of encephalitis—sleeping sickness—in monkeys.

Public health service officials described the discovery as the first step toward finding the cause, transmission agent, remedy and preventative of the disease which has been epidemic here since July 30.

While the animals were being held made by the metropolitan health council, public health officials recorded the 100th death among the 642 victims of the little-known malady here in five weeks.

Fourteen of the deaths and 32 of the new cases were reported during the past 24 hours as the disease spread quickly by the common efforts of the almost 200 of the nation's leading medical scientists.

Post-Divorce Marital Life With Read Bared by Mate

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Marian Read admitted on the witness stand today she had been a wife of Alfred Read Jr. since the granting of an interlocutory decree of divorce and filing of her $100,000 alienation of affections suit against Claire Windsor.

"I would have done anything to get him back," he cried.

The testimony came on cross-examination after Superior Judge Joseph Sproul ruled attorneys for Miss Windsor, state and screen actress, might sue the county for the cost of the suit grew out of a conspiracy between her and her divorced husband, an Oakland broker.

TALMADGE URGES FARMERS TO BACK ACREAGE CUT PLAN

Governors Ehringhaus and Blackwood To Demand Processing Tax Be Made Retroactive For Georgia Farmers.

MOVE WOULD BRING $2,400,000 TO STATE

Talmdge, After Telephone Conversations, Is Confident That Georgia Will Share in Benefits.

Assured by the governors of North and South Carolina that they would insist that Georgia tobacco growers be included in any federal relief program before they would permit the reopening of the closed markets in their states, Governor Eugene Talmdge Friday called upon the tobacco farmers of the state to join in an acreage reduction program for 1934 which is being launched under direction of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in a effort for the tobacco tax in the Carolinas, Kentucky and Virginia.

The governor issued his proclamation after conferring with Governor John C. B. Ehringhaus, of North Carolina, and Governor Ibra C. Blackwood, of South Carolina, both of whom gave him their personal assurance that they would demand that the proposed four-cent processing tax be paid by the federal government to be paid by the federal government before the closed markets are reopened to be made retroactive and the growers of Georgia paid the four cents a pound for the tobacco they marketed in this state during the season just closed.

Would Bring $2,400,000.

The crop in Georgia totaled approximately 60,000,000 pounds this year and if the four-cent tax is paid out in Georgia it will net the growers in this state about $2,400,000.

The governor held his conference with the chief executives of the two Carolinas over the telephone and announced at the completion of these conversations that he believed Georgia would be permitted to share in any benefits to be derived by the program under way in the two neighboring states.

The governor said that the tobacco warehouses in Georgia all have an accurate record of the leaf sold, by whom it was sold and to whom.

"It will be difficult to pay out the proceeds of this tax," the governor said. "The records are all accurate and it could be paid within a week's time."

During the tobacco season in Georgia, Governor Talmdge and Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams sought desperately, though unsuccessfully, to get federal aid for the growers. Georgia, however, had no weapon

DE VALERA'S FOES COMBINE FORCES

Fusionist Move Viewed as Threat To Present Irish Regime.

DUBLIN, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Serious opposition to the administration of President Eamon de Valera developed today with the fusion of all major opposition parties under the leadership of General Eoin O'Duffy.

The parties joined in a new organization known as the United Ireland party, with O'Duffy as president. He issued a manifesto at once, calling on the people to help overthrow the de Valera regime. He declared the new party stands for the voluntary reunion of the entire Irish nation—the Free State and northern Ireland.

The manifesto denounced de Valera for "sham republicanism" and significantly declared that the semi-fascist "blue shirts" organized by O'Duffy would renew their activities even more vigorously, despite the presidential decree outlawing them.

William Cosgrave, former president of the Irish Free State, joined in the movement, his party and the center party in separate conventions adopting resolutions to unite in the fusion party against de Valera.

Cosgrave, outlining the policy of the consolidated forces, said the opposition sought to unite the nation to restore Ireland's markets and give the people an opportunity to work out their own salvation without government interference.

Ex-Convict Associate Of Bailey Is Slain

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—(P)—James "Burrhead" Trumble, 32, former convict described by police as an erstwhile associate of the imprisoned Harvey Bailey, notorious outlaw, was shot and killed today after he and two others, one a brother of Roger Touhy, reputedly terrorized hearers of the Chicago Teamsters' union.

Police Captain John Stege said he was convinced he knew who fired the shots that killed Trumble and said: "I suppose we'll have to charge him with murder to solve the killing. He really deserves a medal, though."

Stege said he was informed that Trumble once broke jail at Buffalo with Bailey. Trumble had served a 10-year sentence in the Atlanta prison for mail robbery.

'Generally Fair' Forecast for Today

Friday's sunshine will continue Sunday, the weather bureau forecast Friday. The official forecast calls for "generally fair" weather.

Today will continue warm, with a range between 70 and 88, or slightly warmer than Friday, when the range was 69 to 86. There was no great amount of rainfall in Georgia up to Friday night, the bureau reported.

FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR MALEY BROTHERS

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in the Sacred Heart church for Robert B. Mailey, of 328 King's highway, Decatur, who was drowned last Sunday in the waters of Lake Burton. The accident, which also claimed the life of J. Willson Bell, of Decatur, occurred when a motorboat in which they were passengers with a fourth man overturned.

The Rev. Father Edward P. McGrath will officiate at the services and interment will be in the Decatur cemetery, with A. S. Turner, funeral director, in charge.

The funeral of Mr. Bell was held Wednesday. Samuel H. Benedict, the fourth member of the party, swam to the shore when the boat overturned in the deepest part of the lake, about three miles above the dam at Lake Burton.

Robert Mailey is survived by his wife, Raymond Mailey, who lived in Birmingham, was unmarried. Three brothers and a sister also survive.

Floods Threatening Lower Texas Valley

HARLINGEN, Texas, Sept. 8.—(P)—A moderate rise rolling down the Rio Grande threatened today to inundate lowlands and fill the flood control system of the lower valley, which was swept by a hurricane Monday and Tuesday.

Fed by the San Juan river, which carried away torrential rains at Monterrey, Mexico, the Rio Grande rose slowly from Rio Grande City, where the San Juan joins it, to Hidalgo, 40 miles away, and at Mission the water went into a floodway.

The only danger to Brownsville and other cities on the river, however, appeared to be in a possible levee break, the flood control system being considered capable of handling even an abnormal rise. Workmen were sent to guard against any such breaks.

While the storm-stricken area watched the progress of the flood with some apprehension, it went about reconstructing houses and buildings and caring for additional injured brought in from outlying sections.

The death toll in the hurricane rose to 24 today with the finding of two additional bodies at Matamoros, Mexico. The injured totaled 500 but few were seriously hurt.

CAROLINA MARTS TO REMAIN CLOSED TO AID GEORGIANS

like that being used in the Carolinas because the state warehouses are not prepared to keep the leaf. It must be sold at once in Georgia, but in North and South Carolina the warehouses are equipped to preserve the tobacco until the growers see fit to sell.

When prices failed to come up to expectations in the Carolinas, Governor Ethinghaus and Governor Blackwood ordered the markets closed and kept closed until satisfactory price arrangements were made either by the tobacco companies or the federal government. Secretary Wallace entered into the situation and launched the campaign for reduction of the 1934 crop, proposing the process tax.

Commissioner Adams said Friday that he would get in touch with Georgia growers immediately in an effort to obtain reduction pledges which would be grouped with those being obtained in the other tobacco growing states and presented to Secretary Wallace.

Talmadge's proclamation follows: "Whereas, it appears that the secretary of agriculture, Hon. Henry A. Wallace, has indicated his definite stand and purpose to promote a tobacco acreage reduction campaign with the hope of raising tobacco prices immediately, and

"Whereas, the success of this acreage reduction campaign is largely dependent upon the loyal co-operation of the tobacco growers,

"Therefore, I, Eugene Talmadge, governor of the state of Georgia, do hereby appeal to all patriotic citizens to lend their united support to this effort by the tobacco growers of this state to obtain a substantial relief for the tobacco growers, and I do hereby call on the tobacco growers of this state to forgo the tobacco growing in 1934 and 1935.

"I am informed that in the event some plan is worked out it will be seasonal and will be retroactive so far as the tobacco growers of Georgia are concerned, as they have practically sold their crop.

"EUGENE TALMADGE,
Governor of Georgia.
"September 8, 1933."

REDUCTION AGREEMENTS MAILED FROM CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(P)—The agricultural adjustment administration shipped into the tobacco growing area today a million acreage reduction agreements for signature by the tobacco growers of South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia, in this proposed acreage reduction, for herein apparently lies their real hope.

"I am informed that in the event some plan is worked out it will be seasonal and will be retroactive so far as the tobacco growers of Georgia are concerned, as they have practically sold their crop.

"EUGENE TALMADGE,
Governor of Georgia.
"September 8, 1933."

The reduction to be requested shall in no event be more than 30 per cent of the annual average flue-cured tobacco production on a grower's farm during 1931, 1932 and 1933. The percentage of reduction may be based on acreage or poundage of tobacco grown, or both.

Proceeds of a 4 cents a pound processing tax on all flue-cured tobacco processed for domestic consumption by manufacturers will be used to pay growers who participate in the reduction program. It is estimated that $10,000,000 will be available from the processing tax.

All land which has produced flue-cured tobacco in any of the three years specified in the agreement is eligible in the program. Landowners or landlords may sign the agreement.

VIRGINIA GOVERNOR ASKED TO PROCLAIM TABACCO HOLIDAY

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 8.—(P)—Governor Pollard received from Governor Blackwood, of South Carolina, today an appeal to issue a proclamation to Virginia tobacco growers of a general holiday to permit a sign-up of the growers for acreage reduction in 1934-35.

The Virginia executive pointed out that markets in this state do not open until September 28 and said he had ample time to consider the proposal before taking action.

MADMAN SLAYS 4, TAKES OWN LIFE

Supposedly Harmless Man Goes Berserk on Streets of Maine City.

BELFAST, Maine, Sept. 8.—(P)—A madman, armed with an assortment of firearms, went berserk on the main street of this small city today, killing four men before he barricaded himself in a blacksmith shop and committed suicide by shooting himself.

The killer was Adrian Jones, former employee of insane asylums in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, who had been known to be demented but generally considered harmless.

The dead were: Herbert E. Ellis, 65, an insurance salesman, and Raymond Blazo, 40, a truckman, who died instantly under the madman's fire; and R. B. Stanhope, 47, a veterinarian, and W. W. Blazo, 75, father of Raymond, who died of their wounds in hospital several hours later.

Jones appeared on the street in front of the Masonic temple shortly after the dinner hour. He brandished a rifle in one hand and a shotgun in the other.

Townfolk scurried for shelter, the madman came upon Ellis and without a word shattered his body with a blast from the shot gun.

Jones then encountered Blazo and his father conversing with Dr. Stanhope in front of the trucking office. He sent a volley of shots into the group that sent all three crumpling to the sidewalk and then fled into a blacksmith shop.

There, while police and sheriffs were laying plans for his capture, Jones sent a shot through his head with a 45-caliber revolver.

Roosevelt Delays Week-End Outing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(P)—While an American president dashed to a new trouble today, President Roosevelt cancelled plans for a week-end fishing trip to stay at the White House and watch the tense situation.

Attention of the president and the state department focused on the momentous unfolding of efforts at Havana to settle the island's governmental problem and restore stability. The president had planned to board the Sequoia, government yacht, at Quantico, Va., tonight for a fishing trip. He still was hopeful of getting away sometime tomorrow, provided the Cuban situation permits.

It was said the president planned to withhold landing any forces in the island, but he was not serious in rioting which would endanger American lives.

Officials made it no secret they regarded the situation as most dangerous and unambiguous. Sunday and Monday are working night and day at Havana, the administration is carefully avoiding identifying itself with any one Cuban faction.

Gold Sales Opened At $29.62 an Ounce

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(P)—The treasury today announced that federal reserve banks may sell newly-minted gold to the arts and crafts and to foreign purchasers at $29.62 an ounce. This is the first announcement of the daily price which will be established by the treasury every 24 hours.

The price setting is in accordance with President Roosevelt's recent order permitting domestic gold mining firms to deliver the newly-minted gold to the 12 central banks on consignment for sale at quotations based on the world price.

Previously, all gold sold to the United States mint, by mandate, at the fixed price of $20.67 an ounce.

DEACON'S ELECTION AS CHURCH PASTOR MUDDLES AFFAIRS

JONESBORO, Ark., Sept. 8.—(P)—The controversy raging around the pulpit of the Jonesboro Baptist tabernacle here was further complicated today by the election of Deacon Jake Sharp as pastor by the Rev. Joe Jeffers' faction of the congregation.

New court action was foreseen, possibly in the form of a petition for a restraining order to prevent the Rev. Dale S. Crowley from entering the pulpit. The Jeffers faction has been in control of the tabernacle for several days, with Sharp as the leader.

Speakers for this group asserted in the election of Sharp was legal and held in accordance with the tabernacle by-laws.

The controversy, the other central figure in the controversy, left a few days ago for Miami, Fla. He was enjoined by the Crowley faction from entering the tabernacle.

city, Miss Mary E. Hughes, national chairman of the women's division of NRA, who delivered a ringing plea for continued support of the program Thursday, remained in the city Friday and held conferences with Mrs. Land, Herbert E. Choate, president of the Chamber of Commerce; W. L. McElreath, president of the department of commerce, and others. She left Friday afternoon for Washington where she will await further orders from the administration.

Miss Hughes highly complimented the women of Atlanta for their "efficient organization and their spirit to work." Nearly everywhere I have been I have found the women doing excellent work, especially in Atlanta."

Workers To Get Fish Fry.—While the women workers are in the field today, the group of canvassers which last week covered the city signing up new NRA members, will be guests at a fish fry at Lakewood park river, given by Wiley Moore, prominent Atlanta businessman. Mr. Moore invited all workers in the Junior Chamber of Commerce and others in the block-to-block business canvass to be present as his guests.

It is expected that Congressman Robert Ramspeck and Mayor James L. Key will be present to make speeches during the party.

Noticeably fewer than in recent days, the number of NRA agreements received by the department of commerce Friday were 250. Large reported 38 certificates of compliance issued, bringing that total to 6,000.

It was announced Friday that the Atlanta Vintners, Jewelers and Engravers' Association had been formed to operate under NRA regulations. The group is to cover the entire Atlanta trade area and will be supervised by the Atlanta Jewelers' Guild. Walter R. Huff was named president of the association, Raymond Yantis, vice president, and Tully Simpson, secretary-treasurer.

NO FIGHT WITH NRA ADMITTED BY FORD

that the matter already has been "blown up out of all proportion."

Whether or not Ford will further clarify his position has not been determined.

Need Not Sign.—There is nothing in the law, according to the company's position, that compels the signing of the NRA code, but as complete observance is maintained by the industry in question.

Rain beat down last night and today on a 16-room "cabin" near Big Bay, Mich., where Mr. and Mrs. Ford have been on vacation for three weeks. There was no indication that the Fords would leave their camp immediately, although officials in Detroit said the manufacturer will leave Saturday and arrive in Detroit some time Monday. Ford did not leave his camp in the Huron Mountain Club, during the day, and continued to refuse all interviews, his associates saying he would not "discuss business while on vacation."

In Detroit associates also pointed out, in discussing statements of General Hugh S. Johnson that the Ford company will be expected to live up to the code although it has not formally accepted it, that books of the company always have been open to government inspection. They said they did not know, however, whether Ford would participate in the same procedure with the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, of which he is not a member.

Dr. Parkhurst, Tammany Foe, Is Killed in Fall at Home

VENTNOR, N. J., Sept. 8.—(P)—The Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, militant minister who attained nationwide fame in the '90s as a bitter and victorious foe of Tammany Hall in New York city, died today an hour after he fell from the roof of his home.

Mrs. Grace Moore Parkhurst, his niece, said he had been walking in his sleep of late, but that his health had been excellent. He was 91 years old.

The aged minister stepped out of a window to the porch roof of the home of his nephew, Winthrop Parkhurst, with whom he lived here. He was taken to Atlantic City hospital, where he died at 4 p. m.

A terrific attack he launched from the pulpit of his Madison Square Presbyterian church in 1892 against what he termed a "damnable pack of administrative bloodsuckers," started a campaign which resulted in the unseating of Tammany in New York.

In 1922, at a gathering in celebration of his 80th birthday, he blamed a crime wave on the fact that Tammany was in complete control of the New York city government.

TALMADGE TO PUSH HIGHWAY PROGRAM

Back From Capital, Governor Approves Board's Plan for Speedy Action.

Governor Eugene Talmadge returned Friday from Washington and gave immediate approval to the state highway board's plan for speedy action to spread out the $100,000,000 the state is to receive from the federal highway fund.

The governor also brought word that the United States bureau of public roads would immediately pay into the highway department treasury approximately $500,000 which has been advanced by the state on federal aid roads because the federal fund was being held up pending settlement of the controversy between Governor Talmadge and the former members of the highway board.

The governor went into conference with Chairman J. J. Mangham, of the highway board, immediately on his return Friday morning and at the conclusion of the conference announced that the entire program was up to the board, that he would in no way interfere with its plans.

Both the governor and Chairman Mangham's offices Friday were swamped by job-seekers and the governor announced emphatically that this task also was up to the highway board.

"I have placed three of Georgia's finest men on the state highway board and I know that the state has the same confidence in them as I have," the governor said. "It is up to the board what roads to pave and what personnel to employ. I will have nothing whatever to do with it."

Mr. Mangham followed this announcement with one of his own in which he said the highway department has ample personnel and that those who desire to obtain work as a result of the road building program will have to wait until the contracts are let and then deal with the contractors.

"It is futile for anyone to seek a job with us now," the chairman said. "We have all the help we need and we have too much work to do to talk things over with every applicant. It is necessary that the board be let alone for just a little while so that we can get things started."

It is expected that the first projects under the fund will be submitted to Washington for approval within two weeks.

J. CLYDE MCKENZIE, 57, PASSES AT EAST POINT

J. Clyde McKenzie, 57 years of age, justice of the peace of East Point, and widely known during a long residence in that community, died at his home early Friday after a long illness. He had served two terms as mayor and was serving a third term when he resigned to accept the postmasterhip of East Point.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the First Baptist Church of East Point. The Rev. W. A. Duncan and the Rev. J. T. Robins will officiate. Interment will be in the College Park cemetery. Pallbearers will be Dr. B. M. Howard, C. L. Pack, Walter D. Conch, Harold P. Brotherton, J. Gordon Hardy and R. F. Thompson.

Judge McKenzie was born in Montezuma, Ga., August 31, 1876. He came to Atlanta early in life and had lived in East Point for more than 30 years. He was a Mason, a Shriner of Kanab Temple, Atlanta, and a member of the Knights Templar.

He is survived by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Daisy Conch, of Hapeville, and one brother, W. C. McKenzie, of East Point.

CONFERENCE IS CALLED ON SCREW WORM FIGHT
Dr. J. M. Sutton, state veterinarian, and Peters S. Twitty, state commissioner of game and fish, Friday called a meeting for next Thursday at Brunswick at which a campaign will be launched to wipe out infestation of the screw worm in deer. Mr. Twitty said that several isolated cases had been reported in south Georgia in the last several days.

POWER SURVEY GROUP IS NAMED BY MAYOR
Appointments on the commission created by city council to consider possible advantages of public ownership of electric utilities were announced Friday by Mayor James L. Key. The members of the commission are Aldermen E. A. Gilliam, chairman; Councilmen Max Cuba and Aubrey Milam, and V. P. Warren, president of the Warren Company, and Robert L. Colley, veteran member of the Atlanta local, International Association of Machinists.

The commission will hold its first meeting at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Alderman Gilliam announced. The commission is to consider the question of obtaining power for the municipality from the Tennessee Valley-Muscle Shoals development.

CUBAN OUTLOOK BRIGHTENS.

Latest reports from the troubled political scene in Cuba lead to the hope that the reign of the junta backed by radical elements among the soldiers, sailors, police and student bodies will be short-lived. Should this eventuate, American diplomacy will have scored a victory and the prospects for the formation of a strong and united government will be better than at any time since the overthrow of Machado.

The sudden seizure of control by the irresponsible elements of the island's population threatened to undo the progress made as the result of the skillful mediation of Ambassador Welles. De Cespedes was acceptable to all of the conservative parties as a provisional president pending the setting up of a constitutional government and the prospects were bright for a permanent cessation of the political turmoil from which the island has suffered during recent years.

This hopeful prospect made all the more regrettable the sudden "revolt of the sergeants," and the placing at the head of the government of a junta of radicals self-evidently lacking in the influence to enforce order and largely out of harmony with the policies which had been advocated by the United States government.

The quickness and firmness with which this government met the radical threat to the efforts to build up a sound and conservative government in Cuba has stiffened the passive resistance of the better elements of the Cubans and is undoubtedly responsible for the growing belief that it will not be long before a more stable government is established.

The junta's origin was such as to make it lacking in stability and the news that 30 American warships were converging on the island soon took the cockiness out of the pseudo statesmen and their illiterate and youthful backers. Certainly from the United States' standpoint a firm and representative government for Cuba is most necessary, and it is undoubtedly an objective which is being sought by the representatives of this country.

HIGH SCHOOL STANDARDS.

If recommendations adopted at the recent meeting in Washington of representatives of the regional associations of colleges and secondary schools are generally accepted, an exhaustive study of standards and procedures for evaluating the work of high schools throughout the country will be undertaken. The Washington conference was called by United States Commissioner of Education Zook, at the request of representatives of the various associations, in order that the service being rendered by regional accrediting agencies to colleges and secondary schools might be brought more closely in line with changes during the past few years in education and social conditions.

The conference recommends that new standards be created, first by testing old standards and retaining such elements as seem satisfactory; second, by evolving new standards through research; that evaluating procedures be developed through careful experimentation; that standards looking towards improved practices in education be developed, and that all standards be adapted to the needs of the various regions.

The evaluation of high schools for accrediting purposes is a task now largely in the hands of the state departments of education and the regional associations of colleges and secondary schools. Basic changes in educational practices during the past few years have brought about frequent friction because of varying standards. The result has been to put both students and institutions of higher learning at a disadvantage. The suggestion that all procedures of evaluating of the high schools be standardized is unquestionably a wise one, looking to the further stabilizing of the nation's educational system.

HOW THE RAILS CAN WIN.

How the railroad train of tomorrow will be able to operate at half the expense of today's lumbering engines and coaches and will match speed with the airplane, is related in an article by Henry F. Pringle in the current issue of the Cosmopolitan magazine.

Even now, he recites, plans are being laid for trains that will travel from coast to coast across the continent in 50 hours, and at an expense that will justify a base fare of $30 to $35 from New York to Los Angeles.

Mr. Pringle cites the high-speed trains now being built for the Burlington and the Union Pacific railroads, the top speed of which will be 100 miles an hour and which will be limited to 80 tons. It is not difficult to figure the operation economies possible when the more than 1,000-ton average of the present-day train is considered.

Such trains, writes this commentator, will not only be beautiful sights as they flash past the countryside, but—

The margin of profit in their operation will be large. It is for this reason that railroad officials look forward to the day when tomorrow's train crosses the continent in 40 or 50 hours. The Burlington train will cost only 65 cents a mile to run. This is an almost unbelievable figure; so extraordinary that the data behind it have been checked and rechecked. See what it means; the government allows 28 cents a mile for carrying the mails. The Burlington will therefore be required to spend only 27 cents a mile for this new and speedy train.

Today's basic passenger rate is 3.6 cents per mile. Suppose, for the sake of simple calculations, that it were 3 cents. This means that only nine passengers would have to be carried for the train to break even! The rate could be slashed to 2 cents and operating costs met, with only 13 passengers. The capacity of the train is 76 passengers.

In view of these figures it is not surprising that so well-posted a man as Mr. Pringle should express the firm conviction that "the railroads are far from extinct," but that, on the other hand, "a new day dawns when they will pay dividends once more."

If the railroads can, for half the expense now involved, transport passengers twice as rapidly and with similar comfort as is the case with the present lumbering trains, evolved in bygone days before the development of the speed of the high-powered automobile and the fast-winged airplane, rail transportation can stage a comeback.

With its present equipment and present mileage rates, it is a hopeless task, but there are fewer travelers who will not choose the greater safety and comfort of the railroads if their speed and their charges are made commensurate with those of other types of transportation.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Nordics

First.

The Nazi slogan of racial purity seems to be as amenable to alteration when circumstance requires. It is true that Swedes, Norwegians and Danes belong to the great Nordic race, but until recently no one imagined that they could be mentioned in the same breath as the crown and glory of Nordic culture, the German people. Yet so it is, German diplomats in Norway, Sweden and Denmark have been notified by the German foreign office that they are exempted from the rule that diplomats must notify headquarters before marrying foreign girls. It is even intimated that young women will rise high in the diplomatic service cannot do better than to contract marriage with the maidens of Norway, Sweden and Denmark. There are some people of purely Nordic strain than the Prussians, apparently. The reason for this deviation from the line of racial purity is, of course, a policy of disingenuous flattery by the Nazi leaders of the complete isolation into which a series of clumsy blunders in foreign policy has landed Germany.

One is tempted to speculate how far demagogic lack of shame would go if any important neighboring power had a government composed exclusively of Jews.

Note

On Music.

When in Leningrad recently, I heard that city's philharmonic orchestra. It is an excellent orchestra, superior I think to any of the five we have in Paris at present. The players had flexibility and responsiveness towards the interpretative individuality of the conductor, and a well-trained, precise coordination in the playing. It offers musical programs ranging from the classical Germans to contemporary Russians, even including works of Scriabin, Brahms, Schumann and Chalkovsky.

The season was opened by the regular conductor, Gauk, whose colorful subtle and controlled leadership proved how well the orchestra has reached, Russian composers—Rimski-Korsakov, Borodin, Chalkovsky—predominated in his programs. With a sprinkling of Beethoven and Wagner. At the end of two weeks he will be followed by Eugenia Slavinski, the first woman conductor in the soviet union.

A decidedly important event this season was the appearance of Shostakovitch, considered the most talented of the younger generation of soviet composers, in the double role of composer and pianist. Three of his compositions, each representing radically different musical forms, were presented in one evening, namely, his "First Symphony," a ballet suite, "The Bolt," and a moving picture suite, "The Golden Mountains," the last being probably the first specimen of moving picture music to be performed at a symphony concert.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

WHY HAVE MOSQUITOES ABOUT THE PLACE?

These fine summer nights it is curious how visitors in search of healthful environment will sit out playing mosquitoes or how they will escape them, yet never grow even slightly sarcastic about calling the place a health resort. It is our funny education. Few of our "educated" citizens know why or how mosquitoes breed or how to suppress the nuisance. Even that droll Yankee character, the village health officer, who owes his position to politics, has only vague notions, if any, about the method of ridding the community of the mosquito nuisance.

It is pretty widely recognized now that the presence of flies in a place where food is served stamps the place as dangerously unsanitary. No matter if the so-called health or sanitary authorities plaster the walls with permits, licenses, certificates of "inspection," the wise customer will discover he has misled himself and appetite or has got to run to catch a train if the flies get around to him with the waiter. In spite of the o. k. of the physicians and the health department, the presence of flies is a sure index of uncleanness on the premises or close enough to constitute a menace to the health of any one who eats there.

So far as we know, the common rain-barrel or tomato can mosquito is not an agent in the spread of disease. Only the comparatively rare Anopheles mosquito, distinguished by its black color marked with silver bands, carries yellow fever. Our common rain barrel or tomato can mosquito, the Culex, carries merely ill-breeding, irritability and an unbearable disturbance of the senses through the smell of its wings, and the sound of its buzz, and the sound of its wings.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

ANXIETY WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The big question on the inside here has not been whether we should go into Cuba, but when we will ever be able to get out of there.

That is the secret worry of those directing our policy. They have known from the first that some sort of intervention would be necessary. What they fear chiefly is that the disorderly step-child will be hanging around until doomsday.

This thought will be dominant in developing our future policy. Every effort will be made to go into Cuba only as deep as necessary with a view to getting out as soon as possible.

Even so, Mr. Roosevelt and his confidential Cuban advisers fear the worst.

ARMY GAME The big boys believe that where our Ambassador Welles made his mistake was in overlooking the army. He played ball with the A. B. C. crowd but neglected the men in uniform.

Former President Machado never fell into such an error. Sometimes he could not pay officials, but he always paid the army. He paid it well. That is why he remained in power so long.

WARNING Before Mr. Welles went to Havana a certain diplomat here called on him at the state department and confidentially said:

"The Machado government is not a good one. There is much to be said against it. But it is a government and an orderly one. I want to warn you that if you put Machado out, you cannot get a stable government in Cuba."

Probably all parties will deny it now, but the truth is that warning came from Machado's ambassador here, Senor Don Oscar B. Cinto.

That is probably the reason so little attention was paid to it.

SLIPS Navy Secretary Swanson spilled the beans all over the White House doorstep in announcing his trip to Havana.

Mr. Roosevelt had intended to be very cagey about it. He was trying to promote the idea that the cruiser Indianapolis was going on a jaunt to the Pacific, not Cuba. The idea was to let it get down in Cuban waters and then suddenly order it to put in at Havana.

Apparently Swanson had not been properly cautioned to keep still. He strove to do the White House and newsmen questioned him: "Are you going to Havana?"

"Sure," Swanson replied. "When will you get there?"

"Tomorrow." (A naval aide broke in here to explain it required two days to reach Havana.)

At any rate, the cat was out. Newspapers emblazoned the yarn across page one.

JUST A PASSENGER White house officials went all over the place when they heard about it. The way Swanson told the story left the impression that the president was sending him down there to handle the Cuban question. That was not true.

The fact is Swanson intended to go to the Pacific coast on the Indianapolis. The president personally informed him that he would have to postpone his trip because the Indianapolis was going to Havana. Swanson replied that was all right; he would merely stop off in Havana with the ship on the way to the coast.

After much buzzing around, the White House issued a statement asserting the secretary was going to Cuba on his own initiative and not for the president.

QUIPS The inner circle boys are swapping flip remarks about Welles and his Cuban troubles.

One is: "Welles was sitting on his laurels when he encountered a thistle."

Another: "Welles hit a home run but forgot to touch second."

Also: "They will have to change the name of Welles street to Welles slip."

SMILES Mr. Roosevelt has an unusual way of masking his worries behind an appearance of good cheer.

Callers were surprised to see him outwardly unperturbed recently when he had Cuba, Henry Ford and the coal code (three most perplexing problems) plaguing him for solution.

Newsmen have noted this phase of his character continuously. They see him twice a week. He is now a somewhat more serious man than when he held his first press conference. He does not joke and smile as much as he did, but he still jokes and smiles, which is more than most people are doing in Washington these days.

NOTES Mr. Roosevelt has been relaxing recently by reading such a thrilling book as "The History of Bath, Maine."

Most of his reading concerns the sea, ships and seaports, particularly the historical side.

Department store competitors of Jesse Straus whisper he is returning from his Paris ambassadorial post for more than a minor operation. His New York store always boasted it sold for 6 per cent less than anyone else. Now the codes are supposed to prevent underselling. Which gives him a bigger pain than appendicitis.

No one has paid much attention to the charge that Professor Berle is an adviser to a sugar company having small Cuban interests. Berle's desire to be impartial is respected by his associates in the brain trust. Officials knew of his connection when they sent him to Cuba as financial emissary.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT OUILLEN

My Dear Louise:

You have had a number of lucky breaks here, youngster, and so much good fortune would be enough to turn almost any youngster's head.

I haven't yet seen any symptoms of swell-head, but a word in season to warn you even if you don't need it.

One afternoon last fall I had two callers. The first was one of the most important men in the state, the other an illiterate hill-billy preacher with snuff stains at the corners of his mouth.

The important man graciously removed his hat as he greeted me; the other kept his hat on visiting the slums.

People aren't born with swell-head. It is contrast that makes it. The victim feels important because he has climbed high enough to look down on the place where he was yesterday.

And the lower he is at the beginning, the more difference a little climbing makes.

A learned man isn't so conceited by learning a little more. It is the little boy in the third grade or the freshman in college who is swelled to bursting with the extent of his learning.

And the corporal promoted from the ranks feels his importance much more than the general.

I suppose it is the lack of capacity to envision great things that enables people to be conceited about small things. An ant, having no conception of mountains, might boast about climbing a clod. And a rustic who has little understanding of distance might feel superior after a trip to the county seat.

In short, swell-head usually afflicts little people who have done little things that seem big because of their own little capacity.

If a fellow is destined to be president, he doesn't feel big when elected mayor. If the mayor's job makes him feel big, it is because it looks big to a man of his size.

I don't want you to feel inferior. People who feel that way deserve the contempt they get. But I do want you to keep humble.

The finest people are those who never think of inferiority or superiority, but accept all others, high and low, as fellow travelers who deserve courtesy and respect until they demonstrate their unworthiness.

No one of us could feel proud if all of his little secrets were made public. Which means that conceit is a result of having people fooled.

If ever you are tempted to feel important, my dear, compare yourself with people who really are.

LOVE,
(Copyright, 1933, by The Constitution.) Dad.

COAL OPERATORS
THREATEN "BOLT" ON JOHNSON CODE

agreement was reached, and another session was called for next week.

The industrial board, speaking for many industries, still is insisting upon wording other codes similar to the provisions in the automobile charter that permit the handling of workers on a merit system without regard to union or no-union affiliation. Both Johnson and President Roosevelt, who approved the interpretative language for the auto code, have been recorded against such provisions in the codes.

The coal controversy sprang back directly into the NRA forefront a few hours after price-fixing had been thrust forward by the consumers advisory board, which was on record as opposed to the principle except in rare instances.

Arthur D. Whitehead, a deputy administrator, was completing the draft of a charter for retailers, containing ample provision for regulating prices and for determining the reasonableness of the prices set below cost.

Whitehead was understood to be drafting his final report to Johnson and officials expected the charter, designed to reach several million workers, to be ready for President Roosevelt early next week.

To Ban Price-Cutting. While the deputy was keeping the provisions of the code carefully guarded, it was understood still to contain a ban against ruthless price-cutting, and to prescribe strict trade practices and advertising rules.

The consumers' board adopted as its general policy opposition to either price-fixing or price-cutting, with the exception of a limited number of natural resource industries where "cut-throat competition has led to public disaster."

Where price-fixing is permitted for a trade or an industry generally, the board urged that definite responsibility for determining the reasonableness of the prices set be placed upon the code authority, with provision for a review of prices by the recovery administrator.

Where codes prohibit selling below cost, the board recommended that its specific representatives endeavor to enlighten the public on what the cost in question is, contending that otherwise such a provision "becomes a mere protection for the producer against the public's outside."

Consideration also was urged of the question of upholding standards of quality as a determining factor in what the cost is.

No Violations Noted. Johnson reiterated to newspapermen that he had no evidence Henry Ford's plant was violating the automobile code now in effect, but added that "if Mr. Ford comes out with an outright violation I'll have to act—with a vengeance."

"I couldn't allow a man as big as that to stand out and defy this government," the administrator said. "I'd have to make a showdown. If he violates this code he is violating the law of the United States. But I have enough on my mind as it is to start an inquisitorial process."

"On one sense Mr. Ford has put himself at the head of the parade," he continued. "He's been given a lot of publicity for the fact that he is not taking part."

NEW PRESIDENT

and many stands at about $12,000,000. We are planning to reduce this by several million dollars. It can be done by reducing the size of the army and eliminating many unnecessary expenses."

The commissioner announced that a committee had been named to study the situation in Cuba and that the executive junta in an effort to solve the labor problem.

Carbo declared there were no real enemies in Cuba and that the unrest among the laborers would end "when all of them have enough to eat."

Joaquin Martinez Saez, A. B. C. leader and treasury secretary under de Cespedes, emerged from the meeting of the junta with the declaration: "There is nothing new but delay, linger and wait."

Government officials viewed the situation as less dangerous than yesterday. The government, they seemed reflected in other quarters.

Sergeant Fulgencio Batista, who led Monday's armed forces coup which resulted in the resignation of the deposed President, told a crowd gathered at the presidential palace not to believe "the false rumors being propagated."

"I have 15,000 men ready to maintain the liberty of the people," he continued. "Right and justice are on our side."

Martinez Fraga, former representative who is prominent in the faction headed by former President Mario G. Menocal, also expressed his belief there had been an amelioration in the situation.

Batista Promoted. Batista later was promoted to the rank of colonel and made chief of the army staff, contrary to previous assertions that he had no desire to advance in rank after the objective of the present movement had been attained. The sergeant was made provisional chief of staff at the time of the uprising.

Sergeants Pablo Rodriguez and Jose Pedraza were named as aides.

Second Lieutenant Felipe Lois was appointed navy chief of staff.

American naval craft were scattered along the Cuban coast with others en route to the waters.

Thirty fighting vessels have been ordered to this vicinity.

The cruisers Richmond and Indianapolis and two destroyers stood by in the harbor, with destroyers also at Santiago and Isle of Pines. Coast guard cutters were converging on Matanzas, Cardenas and Sagua.

The leftist administration still maintained their belief that the United States does not intend to intervene, while on the other hand that order is being preserved throughout the island.

No Pleasure Trip. Antonio Gonzalez De Mendoza, another political leader, however, expressed belief that "the 30 battleships" were not in Cuban waters merely on a pleasure trip.

Cuban statesman, prominent in the overthrow of Gerardo Machado and responsible in part for the ousting of the de Cespedes regime, backed the ruling junta in its refusal to consider the return of the provisional president. They were not represented on the conciliation commission of six men and one woman.

The group is composed of the following delegates:

Flora Diaz, representing women's opposition groups; Santiago Verdeja, representing followers of Menocal; Miguel Mariano Gomez, former Havana mayor; Arturo Comas, member of the O. C. R. R. political society; Roberto Mendez Penate, nationalist delegate; Gustavo Moreno, union representative; and Martinez Saez.

The committee went into secret session to consider the many proposals for solution of the political turmoil. In addition to the rejected de Cespedes proposal suggestions have been advanced that a military junta be formed and that a coalition cabinet be named to replace the present ruling commission.

Conciliation Committee. The diversity of opinion in current political thought was reflected

9 SAWMILLS RESUME WORK UNDER NRA CODE

Operators in West Point Area Agree To Test Code Rules for Two Weeks.

WEST POINT, Sept. 7.—The 175 sawmill employees placed out of work when sawmills in the West Point territory closed down about 10 days ago were back on the job when the nine sawmills started operations Thursday under the lumber code of the NRA. In addition to these, additional hands were given jobs to carry on the work under the shorter working hours allowed.

The 40-hour working week will be strictly adhered to; wage scale given under the code will be paid; lumber will be stacked as required instead of thrown off in piles as formerly. Lumber purchasers, largely contractors, have agreed to partially meet the increased cost with a small increase in prices paid sawmill operators.

It was agreed by the sawmill operators to test out the new conditions for a period of two weeks. It could not be learned Thursday just how many additional men were added to sawmill pay rolls.

DIXIE POLICE SEEKING ALLEGED COMMUNISTS

Police in southern cities Friday were aiding Atlanta officers in their search for Miss Ruth Mulkey, 21, of 321 Crumley street, and Martin Walker, of Atlanta, against whom Assistant Solicitor John Hudson will ask indictments by the grand jury Tuesday on charges of distributing seditious literature.

The man and woman were placed under technical arrest Wednesday night in a raid on the International Labor Defense headquarters on Auburn avenue but did not appear Thursday morning to post $2,000 bond each. Hudson said a large quantity of seditious literature was found and that indictments would be asked against the two for distributing it. Florida police were especially requested to watch Jacksonville and Key West trains.

Abandoned Turpentine Trees Good for Newsprint, Says Herty

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Abandoned turpentine trees, heretofore considered practically worthless, may in the future be used in the manufacture of white newsprint and thus increase potential value of Georgia's forest resources by many millions, Dr. Charles H. Herty said here today.

Speaking before the naval stores section of the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Herty, widely known research chemist, said he has completed successful experiments in using the abandoned pines for the making of wood pulp.

Naval stores men at the meeting said afterwards that if such trees could be used the amount of pine wood available for wood pulp would be increased by some 20,000,000 cords, valued at approximately $38,000,000.

In the past, Dr. Herty said, pine trees that had been tapped for turpentine gum were abandoned after a few years, stunted in growth and practically worthless for lumber. Cuttings from the tree trunks above the turpentine scars have proven available for wood pulp use, however, he said, and have been used in his experiments "with great success."

"These logs were readily and completely converted into sulphate pulp and groundwood," he said, "and from these pulps excellent sheets of white standard newsprint were produced."

Analyses of the wood just above the scar surface of the tree has proven that the amount of resinous material extracted is identical in each case, he stated. "It is a most perfect demonstration that the pine tree is a producer and not a storehouse of crude turpentine."

Dr. Herty estimated the available wood at "three-quarters of a million cords," or enough to provide sufficient raw material "for 25 per cent of the total newsprint consumed annually in the United States." He said, however, that he would gladly accept the higher estimate of the naval stores men.

LARGE CROP OF CUKES EXPECTED IN THOMAS

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Sept. 8.—About 2,000 acres have been planted in cucumbers by the farmers of Thomas county for the fall marketing season, when it is expected that another big crop of cukes will be sold. Shipments being made from the marketing centers. Coolidge leading the county in such shipments each year.

It is estimated that about 1,500 acres planted to cucumbers in and about Coolidge, where two marketing associations have functioned successfully for the past several years. Special arrangements for grading, packing and shipping of the cukes have been provided at Coolidge and the growers always find a ready market here for their entire crop, many of them growing them under a contract arrangement with buyers, it is stated.

In and around Ochlocknee it is estimated the acreage will run around 150 acres, with many acres being planted to cukes in Meigs, Thomasville and other sections of the county.

In addition to the cucumber crop many acres have also been planted in beans for the fall marketing season and reports are that prospects are good for a good crop. Shipments on a large scale are made annually from Ochlocknee, Coolidge, Harwick, Pavo, Meigs and Boston of these and other truck crops as well as from Metcalfe and Thomasville, all providing sources of cash revenue for the truck farmers.

Flaming Meteor Is Described By Woman in Pickens County

The sight of a flaming meteor speeding across the sky shortly before 6 o'clock last Sunday afternoon was enjoyed by residents of other communities as well as Atlanta, according to a letter received by The Constitution from Nelson, Pickens county, Ga., signed by Mrs. Harlie G. Redreis. The meteor was sighted by Mrs. Redreis as it first appeared in the sky.

Mrs. Redreis said it appeared to be about eight inches in length and about the size of a No. 2 lamp globe in diameter and that it traveled spasmodically, pitching and stopping, the while small flames fell from the sky traveler. She said it diminished in size until it was about the size of a tennis ball. A rumbling sound in the sky also was described by Mrs. Redreis.

The meteor was seen by F. D. Loyette, of 6 Peachtree way, and Dr. D. Witherspoon Dodge, of 702 Amsterdam avenue, N. E., in Atlanta. The sky phenomenon attracted much attention in several sections of the state and observers said it seemed to be approximately 250 feet above house-tops.

INJUNCTION HALTS CUTTING OF PRICES BY BARBERS HERE

The power of the courts Friday was invoked in an attempt to halt cutting of barber shop prices agreed upon by Atlanta barbers in a contract under which they accepted the provisions of the NRA.

The action was taken by four members of the Atlanta Master Barbers' Association, who sought and obtained a temporary injunction preventing fellow members of the group from cutting prices below those fixed in the barbers' code.

Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton superior court granted the injunction on request of Luther Alverson, Thomas Stokes, Carl Chance and Carl Zink and set September 16 as the date for hearing on a permanent injunction. Judge Howard also decreed that none of the 22 named defendants could transfer their holdings to others or act in any way to defeat the purpose of the temporary order.

Those named defendants follow: W. A. Parish, 50 Georgia avenue; John S. Walton, 2344 Bankhead avenue; O. L. White, 1904 Howell Mill road; Frank Hodges, 1055 Confederate avenue; W. M. Allen, 835 Grant street; E. S. McEwen, 582 Woodward avenue; H. W. Fitzgerald, 605 Fair street; H. L. Turner, 112 Hurt street; F. G. Smithwick, 788 Marietta street; Lon Lovette, 225 Pryor street, and A. J. Lloyd, 624 Lee street.

The action was brought by Attorneys Warren Cox and James C. Howard Jr.

Rev. H. A. McNeal conducted the service and interment was in the churchyard. Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ester Chapman, of Newton county; eight sons, Raymond, Fred, Bud and Charles Hooten, 22 Hiram county; Frank Hooten, of Corvinton; Emoch and Eddie Hooten, of Forterdale, and Kinbell Hooten, of Milledgeville; two sisters, Mrs. Joe Grant, of McDonough, and Mrs. Sallie Hays, of Butts county.

Sturdivant Denies He Will Take Leave

Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant Friday afternoon reported that he was contemplating leave of absence pending trial in criminal court of Atlanta on misdemeanor charges growing out of the police yearbook investigation. "I have no intention of quitting," he said, "but I am demanding a speedy trial of the issue in my case," Chief Sturdivant said.

Chief Sturdivant said that J. J. Gallagher, who was returned Friday from Knoxville in an investigation of alleged unauthorized solicitations and collections for the yearbook, has advised that he has no intention of leaving the force or otherwise, but I am demanding a speedy trial of the issue in my case," Chief Sturdivant said.

Jackets Look Great in First Scrimmage

BOYD SCORES TOUCHDOWN ON LONG PASS

Several Combinations Tried by Alex During Session.

By Ralph McGill.

Georgia Tech's Jackets stepped out Friday afternoon with the first scrimmage of the year—beating all southern opponents to it in so far as the rough work is concerned.

It was a regular scrimmage with punts, passes and runs and a touchdown. Just one. Norris Dean, at fullback for one of the several combinations tried Friday, tossed a 20-yard pass to Pug Boy, sophomore halfback, for the lone touchdown.

BOYS LOOK GREAT

The scrimmage was held in the new-game uniforms of mustard-colored wool. And the Jackets looked great in action even though it wasn't so smooth. It was great just to see

This scrimmage only serves to indicate the deep machinations of which the man Coach W. A. Alexander is capable. It was only noon Friday that he announced in injured tone that he was not thinking of a scrimmage. And farther than that, he intimated to do nothing more than let the boys have their pictures made, it being the official day for that.

And then the boys went out and had their pictures made for the school yearbook, the three new uniforms in Atlanta and for their best girls.

SIGNAL DRILL

Then followed a signal drill. And then the boys were tossed in there and told to go to it. Coach Alexander wore one of those enigmatic smiles, a sweat shirt, old pants, gold shoes and a terrible looking hat. The enigmatic smile seemed to say, "I have those smart newspapermen." The Jacket coach does not like to have news of his scrimmages broadcast in the papers because too many curious come and poke their noses up against the fence and peer at him and his boys.

A number of combinations were tried. For a while it was brother against brother with the Wilcox brothers, Jay and Dave, pitted one against the other at guard positions. The scrimmage was over at 4 o'clock. Jacket history 30 minutes of it. It came on the fifth day of the first week of practice.

The military shift, from which the boys go into position, looked very prim and neat. I think it was to see how this looked in scrimmage which caused the coaches to scrimmage.

HERE'S THE LINEUP

Coach Alexander selected the following two teams in the scrimmage. A team on which Shorty Roberts was calling had for its backfield Pug Boy and Jack Phillips at halfbacks, and Norris Dean, fullback. Charley Galloway called signals for the opposing eleven and Billy Street and Sundial Martin were the halfbacks with Jack Phillips at center. Roberts line was composed of Gibson and Spratling, ends; Chance and Brittain, tackles; J. Wilcox and Lackey, guards, and Shaw, center.

The Galloway line was composed of Tharpe and Slocum, ends; Williams and Eubanks, tackles; Laws and Warner, guards, and Poole, center.

Practice will begin at 3:30 p. m. Saturday afternoon. A program of drill with the backing band and possibly a bit of dummy scrimmage. Several full scrimmages are on the schedule for next week.

SPEER TO FACE A TEST TUESDAY

Frank Speer will receive a chance to boost his standing in the wrestling game when he meets Paul Jones on Friday night at the city auditorium, Tuesday night. A victory would give the former Tech football star a fine rating in the mat world.

Chief Chewchewski will meet Jim McMillen, third ranking wrestler, in the main go of the card.

Speer appeared here last week on Weber's card and was defeated, but he was matched with Jones. The former Jacket has improved since he appeared here in his first few matches and has no regret to the professional and after his victory last week requested a match with Jones.

Speer has been meeting the best in the game in the east and those who witness it in action last week will testify as to his improved ability. The former Tech tackle is seeking a match in the championship circuit and a victory over Jones would send him soaring to great heights and a possible match with champion Jim London.

Jones, revealed in his match last week that he is fully recovered from a fatal automobile wreck, which claimed the life of George Kotsanos, popular Greek wrestler. Jones spent several weeks in a hospital recovering, but last week he succeeded in winning a tough match. Next Tuesday he will offer Jim McMillen, who is ranked No. 3 in the wrestling game and who first gained fame on the gridiron at Illinois.

match by scores of 3-6, 6-4, 8-3, 3-6, 8-6.

It was an entirely different story against Crawford, who handled Suter like a master boxer dealing with an ambitious slugger. The tall fellow scored four service breaks, while losing his own service only once in three sets and was in command at nearly all stages.

Tommy's semi-finals start at 1 p. m. (E. S. T.), with Stofen and Perry taking the courts first.

Here Is Story Of Grant's Match

Bryan (Betsy) Grant Jr., of Atlanta, five feet three inches tall, and Lester Stofen, of Los Angeles, 6 feet 3 1/2 inches in height, furnished an extraordinary contest. They faced each other in the second quarter-final match.

The fighting little conqueror of champion Ellsworth Vines received an ovation from the gallery as he started the first match in the stadium. Stofen towered over "Bitsy" like a St. Bernard dog over a terrier but the little southerner quickly made the crowd forget his size.

BAPTISTS PLAY OUSLEY CHAPEL IN TITLE GAME

Three Championship Games Billed in Amateur Ranks Today.

Three titular games will be played by the teams of the Y-Club A. Saturday afternoon. Hills Park Baptist, winner of the first half of the Southern league race, will meet the last-half winner, Ousley Chapel, at Kirkwood. And the Goldsmith trophy will be fought to enter the Y-Club championship series.

Kirkwood Baptist will clash with Northwest Atlanta at Almond park in the second of the three-game series for the Dixie league trophy. Northwest Atlanta is one-up on the Baptist boys, and a victory will give them the fourth consecutive Dixie league championship. Carter and Fuller will probably be the opposing hurlers.

With one game already won, Gate City Methodist will return to their own ball lot—College Park—for the second game of their series with Rock Springs Presbyterian. Gate City Methodist won the Georgia league cup while the Rockers were victors of the Piedmont league race. Charlie "Lefty" Davis, whose one-hit game was the factor in last Saturday's victory, will hurl for the Methodist boys and will be opposed by "Lefty" Rucker.

The schedule:

Rock Springs (P. L.) vs. Gate City (G. L.), College Park; umpires, Wagner and Anchors.

Hills Park Baptist vs. Ousley Chapel at Kirkwood; umpire, Chick Harris.

Dixie League. Kirkwood Baptist vs. Northwest Atlanta, Almond park; umpires, Walton and Bond.

Cochet Signs Pro Tennis Papers

PARIS, Sept. 8.—(P)—Henri Cochet, famous French tennis star, formally announced tonight he had turned professional and signed a contract with Big Bill Tilden.

Cochet's announcement, made to sports writers, definitely ended all speculation as to what the former world champion would do. He will make his pro debut here in the Franco-American series starting September 23 when he and Martin Pina will represent the French pro team.

Cochet had declared yesterday that he would play in the series but would not accept any prize money. He would, he insisted, retain his amateur status.

To that Pierre Gillou, president of the French tennis federation, declared Henri automatically would forfeit his amateur standing by appearing in a match with professionals for which admission was charged.

Informed of Gillou's decision, Cochet declared he would turn pro "at the first opportunity" and the opportunity quickly presented itself.

"I believe we are headed straight for open tournaments," the Frenchman had said this morning. This despite the French federation's long and bitter objections to play by amateurs and professionals and Gillou's assertion that so long as he held the federation presidency there would be no open championship in tennis.

Cochet said he had received numerous offers for matches in the United States and Australia.

Vines To Turn Pro Before End of 1933.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 8.—(P)—Ellsworth Vines, despite his failure to even to reach the quarter-finals in defense of the national tennis championship and reluctance thus far to commit himself to a professional contract, is expected to follow the lead of Henri Cochet of France, and turn "pro" before the end of 1933.

It is authoritatively understood, despite denials, that Vines has agreed to talk definite terms soon after he returns to California, and join Big Bill Tilden in a professional tour, competing against Cochet and Martin Pina, the French pro team. The American send-off for this quarter is scheduled for New York early in January, with a series of matches in Madison Square Garden.

Jack Burke Lost To Ole Miss Team

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Sept. 8.—(P)—Catastrophe befell Jack Burke, Ole Miss varsity football eleven today with the announcement that Jack Burke, of Ruleville, veteran halfback and one of the most dependable members of the squad, will be unable to participate in contests this fall.

Burke is definitely out of the game with a torn ligament in the calf of his left leg. Physicians said today would handicap him throughout the season. The injury is a recurrence of a serious mishap suffered during the last year's season when he was playing baseball with the Boyle (Miss.) independent team.

The gallery gave the little fellow a great hand.

Football Takes Prize For Providing Relief One Can Forget All-Star Games, World's Fair and Crackers When Pig-Skins Fly.

By Jimmy Jones.

Back from a Century of Progress, or rather a couple of them—the one at Chicago and the other over the rugged terrain of Kentucky and Tennessee in a balky motor—one finds football in Georgia once more in its ascendancy and the Crackers playing their last game of the season. (Note: Please don't imagine, even if tempted, that the return trip was timed that perfectly with the Crackers' swan song.)

But it is good to get back and find football going full blast and dispatches dealing with the Jackets and Bulldogs filling the columns. The writer, in company with Mr. Jack Cannon, the Tech line coach, and, ahem, Mr. Cannon's very charming companion, viewed the East-West all-star game at Soldiers' Field and it was agreed unanimously that with all its fanfare and splendor, it would not equal the thrills of a Tech or a Georgia tussle.

As a matter of fact, we were somewhat disappointed with the show. Mr. Cannon largely because of the fact that there weren't enough Notre Dame men represented and the writer because Dr. Zimmerman, the lone southerner, only got into a couple of plays (both passes) before being carried from the field while the 122d Infantry band from Atlanta played a requiem for Dixie.

The most cheering aspect of the vacation, if one must write about it, was a visit or so to the White Sox park where when he cut down a couple of teams, break up another with Boston with a triple in the ninth and handle 15 chances without a boot the short, hitting behind Al Simmons, both in the averages and in the line-ups, has helped his confidence.

Applying isn't making as many men as he used to and his defensive work this year is considered very capable by Manager Lou Fonseca and Louis Comiskey. Applying isn't making as many men as he used to and his defensive work this year is considered very capable by Manager Lou Fonseca and Louis Comiskey.

Found out, also, that Mule Haas still has one of the greatest wings in the league when he cuts down a couple of runners, at third, and Jimmy Dykes, now on his second decade as a big leaguer, is still a very capable third baseman. The talk of Dykes being a steady influence on Applying at short was substantiated by White Sox players and fans. They all agreed that the cool, nonchalant Dykes has been a big balance.

As luck would have it, the lone visit made to the Cubs' park was on the day that Harry Vance, hurrying for the Cards, struck out nine of the Chicagoans, including his old teammate, Babe "Holman" Herman. And it would have amused your Uncle Wilbert Robinson greatly to have been a witness to Babe's various facial expressions during the process.

These, along with a round of the Exmoor golf course, trailing Van Wier and Hicks with that most excellent companion, B. Keeler, just about completed all our sports activities in Chicago.

The rest of the time was spent building up a very strong resistance against the talented athletes at the exposition, the diaphanously attired Sally Rand and the beer gardens.

It is very hard to be free of such things and back in the wholesome atmosphere of another football season.

FOUR TEAMS OUT. Four teams were running signals at the close of the practice today. Team No. 1 had McKnight at center; Moorehead and McCullough, guards; West and Opper, tackles; and Batchelor and O'Farrell, ends. On the backfield were Brown, quarterback, with Chapman and Grant, halfbacks, and Davis, fullback.

On the second team were Tank Ludwig, center; Shi and Johnson, guards; Morgan and Cooper, tackles; and Leroy Young was quarterback, with Bond and Mingo, halfbacks, and Joe Crouch, fullback.

Jack (the Ripper) Roberts, star fullback of the sophomores of '29, watched the squad practice this afternoon. Roberts, who played professional football with Boston last fall, will leave Athens tomorrow to join the Philadelphia Eagles for their opening workout Monday.

GOOD PUTTING. "Hank" Decker, golf pro at Excelsior Springs, Mo., recently took only 21 putts to hole out on 18 greens.

Clyde Pennington Lost to Clemson

CLEMSON COLLEGE, S. C., Sept. 8.—(P)—Dr. Lee Milford said today Clyde Pennington, Clemson sophomore back and triple-threat ace, probably will be lost to the Tiger football team for the entire season because of injuries.

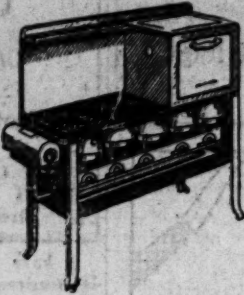

Pennington suffered a knee injury last season and hurt his other leg at the first practice this year.

NANCY PAGE

Here is Another Way To Prepare Carpet Rags
BY FLORENCE La GANKE.

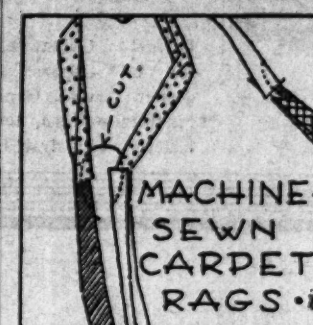

Nancy found that she had started something when she began to talk about carpet or rag rugs. She told the members of her club about the method which called for cutting two slits and slipping loose ends through the slits. Then woman told her of the sewing method. That brought forth a letter which Nancy read to her group.

The letter comes from Mrs. Rowland, of Pittsford, N. Y.

Nancy skipped parts of the letter, but gave it its substance. "May I criticize the method of sewing rugs which is illustrated in my June 21 paper? I am a rag-rug weaver and of course, get rugs prepared in all ways. The method shown in the paper is not a good one in my opinion, for, as the rugs go through the loom there is nothing to hold the loose ends down. They are very apt to turn back as the shuttle carries the warp through the warp shed. This, too, they are apt to stick up through the warp.

"The looping through a slit method is sometimes used successfully, but the rugs must be evenly cut and rather fine to prepare in this way.

"I am sending a sample of machine-sewn rugs. There are no ends which the warp will not hold down. Weas are never cut through in preparing rugs for they are apt to open and this leaves a hole. Even if seams do not open, we again have the loose ends to make the rug look loose." Then Mrs.

Rowland inclosed a sample which looks like the drawing. The work is done continuously on the machine, clipping the ends as shown in the place marked "cut."

Nancy explained to her group that she had had in mind the use of the slit joined pieces for braided rugs. But even with those she could see the advantages of having the smooth joining as described by Mrs. Rowland.

After the talk the group enjoyed "Snacks with Beverages." Nancy will send you a leaflet with recipe if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Write Nancy Page, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

What makes life livable, reader? It's the margin one has. In every area of life it is equally true that the margin determines the enjoyment of life. In the material, physical, social, intellectual and spiritual areas one must have a good margin for full enjoyment. Perhaps a dictionary definition of the word will help to clarify the idea: "A margin is an amount, as of time or money, which is allowed or reserved in addition to what is actually or directly used, something allowed or provided to meet conditions or requirements that cannot be exactly determined or foreseen."

Take the mere matter of money, this is one thing with which we must reckon, and apply it to life and each day he lives his enjoyment of life is limited by the margin which none of us can live. The poor man who spends his last penny for week-end groceries and gets home under nervous tension, soon finds his health impaired and neither the fat pay envelope nor the independence she has bought at the price of her sacrifice of health.

In the intellectual realm the necessity for a good margin is easy to recognize. Someone asked a great dramatic critic, "What is the secret of the marvelous power Sarah Bernhardt exercises over her audience?" Quick as a flash he answered, "It's her margin. She never uses all her voice, all her emotional enthusiasm, all her expressive gestures. She inspires you with the feeling that she has much more in reserve."

Socially one must have margin, margin in money, margin in manners, margin in friends and in the give and take of entertainment, or one can't play the social game with any pleasure at all.

Spiritually one can't live happily without margin, one can't die without a margin of faith. Around the corner for every mortal is disappointment, suffering, sorrow and anguish. These cannot be met and disposed of satisfactorily unless faith has been reserved, something with which to meet the unforeseen.

A margin in faith, a margin in courage, a margin in quiet resignation to the inevitable and a margin in love toward man and God one must have to make life livable. All of these are spiritual margins.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

something reserved for the unforeseen demand.

Or take the case of the moderately well-to-do man who has bought stocks on margin, using his last bit of available cash and his last bit of available credit. What is his state of mind when the broker calls him and tells him he must put up more collateral? He then knows the necessity for having a reserve.

Or yet again, consider the young husband who has bought a home and strained himself to make the first payment on it, neglecting to lay aside a sufficient amount for taxes and insurance. Do you imagine that he has unalloyed delight in his property? Not when his house is advertised for sale on account of non-payment of taxes, not when his house burns down and there is no insurance money with which to reimburse himself.

In the realm of the physical the case is just as good. The athlete who uses up his last ounce of strength in the race and imposes a strain on his heart which cripples it permanently, carries that maiming heart through life and each day he lives his enjoyment of everything is limited by the loss of his health margin. The business woman, forced to work long hours under nervous tension, soon finds her health impaired and neither the fat pay envelope nor the independence she has bought at the price of her sacrifice of health.

In the intellectual realm the necessity for a good margin is easy to recognize. Someone asked a great dramatic critic, "What is the secret of the marvelous power Sarah Bernhardt exercises over her audience?" Quick as a flash he answered, "It's her margin. Culbertson on Contract

Protective Bidding.

By ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

I have frequently referred to the ineffectiveness against expert players of the so-called "protective" bidding advocated by a small coterie of alleged experts. Nowhere was the ineffectiveness and, in fact, the tremendous danger of such tactics more clearly demonstrated than in the recent national tournament of the American Bridge League at Asbury Park. Some players have adopted the cult of passing strong hands in first and second position and expecting partners in third or fourth position to "protect their passes" by bidding on practically nothing. These tactics may work against unwary opponents, but they cannot be effective in the long run against Bridge players who have cut their eye-teeth.

An example of what can easily happen under this system occurred where one of its chief proponents and one of his favorite disciples held the North and South hands.

Both sides vulnerable.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(P)—Stocks went through the motion of a market today, accomplishing little so far as net changes were concerned.

Transactions looked highly professional. There was the familiar sag during much of the morning, followed by rallying tendencies which had the earmarks of short covering. Final variations from Thursday's close were mostly in fractions, the Standard Statistics Associated Press composite showing a small net loss.

Volume was only 1,200,000 shares. Oils were still willing to rise moderately and steel looked a little better today, but rails eased. Industrial, perhaps, by a point drop in Union Pacific. Mining issues tilted up a bit.

Functional gains in American Steel and Bethlehem Steel, American Cane Sugar, Consolidated Gas, Chrysler, Anacosta, McIntyre Porcupine, Seaboard Oil, Sears-Roebuck and Texas Corporation were offset by meager losses in General Electric, Case, Harvester, American Tobacco, Canadian Pacific, National Distillers, Footwear and a few others. Homebrew Mining, Loew's, du Pont and Allied Chemical improved a point or more.

The market's afternoon upturn coincided with stronger support for previously heavy grains. Demand for cash wheat was said to have been noticeably better. Cotton at first paid little attention to the government's crop estimate, which was somewhat above the average of guesses, but later it eased and finished 75 cents lower. The market's reaction to the government's crop estimate, which was somewhat above the average of guesses, but later it eased and finished 75 cents lower.

Advance estimates placed last week's freight car loadings at a higher level than for the previous week and there was some talk that a new high for the year might be established.

F.D.R. Contemplating Loan for Steel Rails

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(P)—President Roosevelt is contemplating a loan from the public works fund to the railroads for the purchase of steel rails if the steel companies reduce the price of rails.

He has been known to talk with the steel companies and they are favorable to it. He intends to talk with the steel companies to make sure that the price is cut.

Joseph B. Eastman, railroad coordinator, is working out the details. The interstate commerce commission has complained in the past on the price of steel rails.

By BERNARD S. O'HARA.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(P)—Curb prices stiffened after forenoon session today, but progress was of an irregular nature.

Midday buying in oils spurred the list slightly higher, but the move was of brief duration. Gulf Oil closed 2 points higher, while others of the group were narrowly changed.

The cheer didn't center on the fact that the market had been in a decline since the close of the previous session, but rather on the fact that the market had been in a decline since the close of the previous session.

Alcohols showed slight change, excepting Kreuger Brewing, which added a point to yesterday's moderate gain. Fractional advances predominated in the mining group. General Electric and Rubber dropped 4 points in nominal dollar value. Pan-American Airways and Aluminum declined 2 points or more each.

Transfers approximated 200,000 shares, compared with 231,000 yesterday.

Market Outlook

By MAX BUCKINGHAM.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Market traders were a little more cheerful tonight. They looked into the immediate future and were hopeful that some of the various rumors would materialize into actualities and would push trading from its doldrums.

The cheer didn't center on the fact that the market had been in a decline since the close of the previous session, but rather on the fact that the market had been in a decline since the close of the previous session.

But the traders had some points from which to draw conclusions before the going started the Saturday session. These included:

Carloadings will be announced for the week ended September 2, with some indications that the week of 1933 peak set during the week of July 22.

Several "big" operators have been adding to their favorites on the belief that better prices will prevail in the next 60 days; or one or two keep adding without seeking any immediate improvement, a few announce expectations of improvement before the year is out.

There is a noticeable change in sentiment on the wheat pit—almost a direct reverse which brought fractional gains today—engendered by reports that the government's crop estimate might be further reduced next week. All such reports as this weave around inflation.

Today's market was a little more cheerful toward the close. Some of the leaders, such as United States Steel, showing a disposition to come to life. The market finished irregular.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(P)—Curb prices stiffened after forenoon session today, but progress was of an irregular nature.

Midday buying in oils spurred the list slightly higher, but the move was of brief duration. Gulf Oil closed 2 points higher, while others of the group were narrowly changed.

The cheer didn't center on the fact that the market had been in a decline since the close of the previous session, but rather on the fact that the market had been in a decline since the close of the previous session.

Alcohols showed slight change, excepting Kreuger Brewing, which added a point to yesterday's moderate gain. Fractional advances predominated in the mining group. General Electric and Rubber dropped 4 points in nominal dollar value. Pan-American Airways and Aluminum declined 2 points or more each.

Transfers approximated 200,000 shares, compared with 231,000 yesterday.

Market Outlook

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Market traders were a little more cheerful tonight. They looked into the immediate future and were hopeful that some of the various rumors would materialize into actualities and would push trading from its doldrums.

The cheer didn't center on the fact that the market had been in a decline since the close of the previous session, but rather on the fact that the market had been in a decline since the close of the previous session.

But the traders had some points from which to draw conclusions before the going started the Saturday session. These included:

Carloadings will be announced for the week ended September 2, with some indications that the week of 1933 peak set during the week of July 22.

Several "big" operators have been adding to their favorites on the belief that better prices will prevail in the next 60 days; or one or two keep adding without seeking any immediate improvement, a few announce expectations of improvement before the year is out.

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE No. 6

(The Big New Tarzan Picture Starts at the Georgia Theatre Saturday, September 16.)

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As the apes leaped and growled around the white man, the king of beasts broke through the circle. The man spoke a single word and instantly the lion lay down at his feet. "Jad-bal-jah," greeted the ape man. The great apes drew back. "It is Tarzan," said Go-yat.

In the meantime, at the camp, Jafar entered Zora's tent. "If your head better?" he asked. "With undisturbed rest, it will be soon," said the girl coldly. "My dear," said the Hindu soothingly, "let us not quarrel. Before Zivri returns, I shall have taught you to love me." "Get out!" said Zora, Jafar seized her.

Wayne Colt's guide looked back at the American with a broad smile. "The camp, bwana!" he exclaimed. The young American's attention was attracted by an unusual sound coming from one of the tents. "There is someone or something in there," he said to Tony, the Filipino, hurrying toward the entrance.
